

Iceland is one of the richest countries in the world when it comes to water! We have great natural water resources, geothermal and hydro energy which we use to create electricity and to heat our homes, greenhouses and swimming pools.

We Icelanders do love to bathe outdoors with natural hot pools in secret locations and swimming pools in every little village! We also have the purest and best tasting drinking water in the world in brooks, rivers, underground springs and glaciers, practically everywhere we look! Join us for our Water Moment where we focus on the Icelandic water in its many forms - even in local beer and icy cold vodka!
