

Iceland is the land of ice and fire, with snowy mountains and glaciers covering volcanoes of every kind, geothermal heat raging deep in the ground and earthquakes shaking things up regularly. As the geologically youngest country in the world, Iceland is constantly being shaped and changed by the element of fire and everywhere we go we'll find old and new lava fields and black sands of volcanic ash. So what could be more fitting for your farewell dinner than our stunning Fire and Ice Gala? You're sure to enjoy meeting our Fire Queen and tasting our smoking Volcano cocktail at the start of a memorable evening.
